A MESSAGE FROM MRS NEGUS-HILL

Happy New year to you all! I hope that you all had truly wonderful Christmas and made some lovely memories with friends and family. I can hardly believe that it is 2018, time flies too quickly. As we now enter the Spring term at school, we have excited children ready to immerse themselves in their new theme. The classrooms are looking fantastic, staff have, as always been hard at work. Discovery class are thinking about, 'What makes a hero?' and their room is full of flying superheroes; a dark Batcave; a soldier's trench and a hospital! The children have loved exploring it this week. Voyager are researching water and thinking about whether is it, 'Essential for life or enjoyment'. You will need your goggles if you step foot in their room, it is underwater, with fish, seaweed and anchors everywhere! Endeavour's room is a complete disaster! With the essential question, 'Can we be superheroes?', they are looking at how we can survive natural disasters such as erupting volcanoes; terrifying tornadoes and deep floods. It promises to be fascinating! All classes will be sending home a Curriculum newsletter next week to tell you more about what the term holds in store. This term is going to be wonderful!
